Forecast For Highland & Eilean Siar
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Tuesday 16 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mostly cloudy on Wednesday, drizzle along the west coast.

This Evening and Tonight:
Clear skies to start the evening south of the Great Glen with patchy cloud further north. Cloud increases overnight, but remaining dry. Northwest winds easing. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Wednesday:
Mainly dry although often rather cloudy, best of the brightness in the northeast. Some persistent low cloud across the west giving a little drizzle along the west coast. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Rather dull with a good deal of low cloud and some light drizzle for the next few days, but some bright or sunny spells possible across inland parts.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.